

How Difficult Is It To Be A CEO?

I can't seem to fully get my head around the role of a CEO. Basically the CEO sets the strategy, vision and makes sure everyone is on the same page. May have meetings with other partners etc. Brainstorm ideas with other execs. Talk to investors. Recruiting / Editing the team.

What else do they do? If you are a CEO or have been one, can you describe what you do on a daily basis? It seems like they just go around, making sure everything is operating in order. They don't actually have to solve technical problems etc themselves. Also they control what they spend on their revenue. Plus they are the face of the company. Which means if you screw up then your company suffers.
